

ALASKA VPP NEWSLETTER

October 2023

Words from VPP Coordinator, Christian Hendrickson

Insulfoam's recent VPP renewal ceremony on October 20, 2023, marked a significant achievement for the company. Participating in the Voluntary Protection Program since May 12, 2005, Insulfoam Anchorage, operating since 1972, has excelled in manufacturing high-quality expanded polystyrene insulation products for Alaska. The ceremony celebrated their remarkable safety record, boasting 20 years without a lost time injury and over 3000 days without a recordable injury, reflecting their steadfast commitment to a culture of safety in the workplace.

This remarkable milestone demonstrates Insulfoam's unwavering dedication to employee safety and well-being. Their extensive safety record not only distinguishes them within the industry but also sets a commendable standard for others to follow, showcasing how prioritizing a secure work environment can lead to both success and recognition. Congratulations to Insulfoam on this outstanding accomplishment, which stands as a testament to their continuous efforts in upholding exemplary safety standards.
